

“What exactly was the difference? He wondered to himself. And who decided which people wore the striped pajamas and which people wore the uniforms?”

John Boyne, The Boy in the Striped Pajamas

MY THOUGHTS

The only difference between these people was uniform. Nobody can say that they are better than others and torture. In 1971 Philip Zimbardo started Stanford prison experiment. It was a social psychology experiment that attempted to investigate the psychological effects of perceived power, focusing on the struggle between prisoners and prison officers. Zimbardo thinks that environment has an impact on how a person behaves. In my way of thinking if we won't avoid all bad things that have become in the past we must take care of the atmosphere between us.